SCHOOL REPORT.

To the Friends of Education in Lyndeborough:

There are many reasons for congratulation and encouragement in a retrospect of the schools of your town for the past year.

Excepting one or two instances a decided improvement upon the previous season can be shown. Better discipline has been maintained, whispering, (the opponent of good order) in a number of cases has been entirely overcome by effective measures; in general, this evil has annoyed less than formerly. Very little complaint has reached our ears; a kindly feeling seems to have prevailed in most districts between parents, teachers and scholars.

The old time fashion of spending the last half of a term, or even two or three, in six or eight weeks in reviews, and preparing for a grand display on examination day is deservedly becoming unpopular. A weekly re-examination of general topics upon Fridays is a better plan. The closing day should be as far as possible a just criterion of the preceding days of a term.

Teachers have been urged at the outset to give especial attention to the subject of reading. Some progress has been made but this study is not taught at present in common schools in the best manner. Scholars, too often, are made to read in a tone unpleasant to the ear, loudness is mistaken for distinct enunciation, and mere parrot-like pronunciation of words, the dead letter for the true spirit of reading. Teacher and scholars should both spend one-half the time usually devoted to this recitation, in examining, together, the various points and exercises suggested by the lesson. Scholars would soon regard the reading lesson taught in this way as a very interesting study. Composition writing has received some attention during the year, with pleasant results. Mental Arithmetic has been taught very commendably. Map drawing by the pupils in District No. 1, reflected much credit on the class in Geography. Grammar and Arithmetic have not been overlooked, and in several schools, Algebra, Physical Geography, and some of the higher branches have been profitably pursued.

The multiplicity of recitations in many of the schools engross so much of the teacher's time, that many interesting questions not contained in text-books must necessarily be omitted. Can this be remedied? Superintendent and teachers have puzzled their minds in vain to find an answer to this question.

Scholars and teachers, at the close of the summer terms particularly, have adorned the walls of their school apartments with tasteful decorations of flowers and leaves. We wish that some maps might be procured to place upon these same walls, and that instead of the hard, uncomfortable seats, so injurious to the health of the children, chairs could be placed in every school-room.

If the school system now authorized by the Statute law of New Hampshire, and used in nearly all the towns and cities for a long time in Mass., adopted by the best towns in this state, and found to succeed admirably in Milford, N. H., and elsewhere, viz: "The appointment at the annual town meeting, of a Board of Education, consisting of three persons who shall have and exercise all the powers and duties of Superintending and Prudential Committees, to be chosen for three years, and that the term of service of one-third of this Board shall expire annually," could take the place of the old method in Lyndeborough, a wonderful and radical change for the better would be seen in the schools of the town.

"The office of Superintending and Prudential Committees, which ought never to have been separate, would then be united." Teachers would be sent to the schools for which they were best adapted and those who were inefficient would be less likely to obtain schools.

Book knowledge alone never can make a successful teacher. A person may have a thorough acquaintance with all the rules and principles included in the entire curriculum of text-books and yet fail utterly in this important work. A true teacher must have received a call, or in other words possess an inborn gift or aptitude for teaching. Children need to be instructed in manners and morals as well as books. We have had a number of such teachers in town the past year, and their works do testify to their faithfulness. A teacher's influence is beyond estimation.

Advanced educators, everywhere, are predicting a great change in the methods of instruction in the next few years. The Quincy schools are giving a new impulse to education. Teacher's Institutes are doing a good work. Never was the educational prospect for the state of N. H., so encouraging as at present. Teachers, and those contemplating the vocation, must labor, keep in place with the times, or fall out of line.

Again your Superintendent desires to express her appreciation of the universal kindness and respect she has received in discharging the duties of the office. Always with deep and tender interest will be remembered the children of Lyndeborough.

DISTRICT NO. 1.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE,—LEVI HADLEY.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Ella M. Dodge. A pleasant and profitable term of school. The scholars were interesting and obedient, and manifested especial enthusiasm in the mental studies, History, Geography and Physiology. The order was excellent.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Miss Clara F. Dodge. A very harmonious, successful season. The promptness and accuracy some of the small boys displayed in replying to questions in Colburn's Arithmetic was quite wonderful. One young lad only seven years of age was particularly quick in recitations. Good advance in studies, generally, was made. Miss Dodge had a very pleasant way of governing the school and enforcing order. Rhetorical exercises were quite interesting, also the classes in reading and spelling.

DISTRICT NO. 2.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE,—HENRY H. JOSLIN.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Fannie Hall. Miss Hall ruled the scholars by love, and the result was very satisfactory. Marked improvement was made in all branches. The teacher was obliged to contend with poor health and many difficulties, but she labored faithfully for the school. The moral and mental training her pupils received will be of lasting benefit to them. Whispering was excluded from the school-room.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Harry Whittemore. The teacher labored conscientiously for this school, and succeeded in awakening new energy and interest in his pupils. He is deserving of praise for the difficult work accomplished. The scholars showed thoroughness and promptness in recitation at the closing day. The school paper containing some of the compositions of the term was very creditable to the scholars, and interesting to listeners.

DISTRICT NO. 3.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE.—JOHN EMERY.

SUMMER, FALL AND WINTER TERMS.—Taught by Mrs. Clara Cram. This is the largest school in town, and for this reason probably the most difficult. Mrs. Cram has taught here for several years, and her reputation as a teacher is so well established, words of commendation from us are unnecessary. There are some very interesting scholars in this school who always make good progress in their studies. Unfortunately the fall and winter terms were somewhat disturbed by Diphtheria.

DISTRICT NO. 4.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE.—CHARLES H. SENTER.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Ella Woodward. As much was accomplished as could reasonably be expected in six weeks' time. The children in this school are very interesting and well behaved.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Miss Woodward. A fair progress was made during this term. We noticed the readiness of very young scholars in adding and subtracting numbers on the black-board, the class in Emerson's Arithmetic particularly. The order was good. The teacher seemed to lack enthusiasm somewhat, but larger experience may impart this.

DISTRICT NO. 5.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE.—J. B. DOLLIVER.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Kate Curtis. The improvement in this school was very marked at examination day. The teacher tried to interest and arouse the scholars and a very good result was shown. Especial advancement was made in those branches wherein the pupils were very deficient, Reading, Spelling and Writing. The rhetorical exercises at the last day of the term were very interesting. Miss Curtis excels in teaching and governing young children.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Miss Welitha Farwell. From all accounts that have reached us, we judge this was a very successful term. Very unfortunately the Superintendent was unable to be present examination day. But the teacher's manner of conducting recitations and discipline, when visited, was excellent.

DISTRICT NO. 6.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE.—CHARLES TARBELL

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Lora Tarbell. Miss Tarbell stepped out of the old beaten track a little and introduced some new ideas which were very profitable to the school. She ruled by love and yet with firmness. Teacher and scholars labored together enthusiastically and much was accomplished in eight weeks. Fifteen scholars did not whisper during the term.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Miss Tarbell. Parents take more interest in the school, in this district than in any other in town, hence the children are more ambitious, and the school takes rank among the first in town. Miss Tarbell was the right teacher for the place. Wonderful progress because of thoroughness was made during this term. Exercises at examination day were intensely interesting, especially may be mentioned, singing, vocal gymnastics, reciting of multiplication tables to the twenties, and rhetorical exercises.

DISTRICT NO. 7.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE —HENRY BOWEN.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Mrs. Emma J. Perham. This school was a success in every respect, as it always is when under the charge and instruction of Mrs. Perham. The discipline was good and recitations of a high order.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Clarence L. Trow. This was a first experience in teaching. The teacher would have succeeded better had he required strict obedience on the part of some of the small boys. The order was not what it should have been. But all who were really desirous of learning showed improvement at the close. The girls in this school are especially modest, lady-like and scholarly.

DISTRICT NO. 8.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE.—NATHAN CUMMINGS.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Susie Wood. Miss Wood was a young teacher and of course lacked experience, but she tried to please parents and scholars. The order was not quite satisfactory. Some improvement, especially in the subject of reading, was observed in the short term of six weeks.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Miss Julia Dodge. This school is still in session. Miss Dodge is a teacher of large experience and we think just the person to make this a very successful term. We doubt not excellent results will be seen.

DISTRICT NO. 9.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEE.—SEWELL M. BUCK.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Sarah McLane. Miss McLane is a first-class teacher, and did the best she could for the school in the short time allotted her. The School was remarkably free from whispering. The teacher made thoroughness her aim in instruction.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Miss Fannie L. Farnum. although this was the young lady's first experience in teaching, it is the opinion of your Committee that she succeeded well. The scholars present at the closing day certainly gave evidence of remarkable progress during the year. Several pupils had not whispered.

DISTRICT NO. 10.

SUMMER TERM.—Taught by Miss Annie L. Langdell. This young lady had a limited experience in teaching but did the best she knew for the few pupils under her care. The school appeared well when visited.

WINTER TERM.—Taught by Miss Lizzie J. Jordan. The teacher labored faithfully and earnestly and the scholars furnished proof of this at the end of the term. In our opinion the most successful school session for several years. It would be well for the district if the services of this lady could be secured for another year. Eddie Wellman, only six years of age, was not tardy nor absent during the twenty weeks of both terms.
